Introduction

The family inventory guidebook is designed to help you gather a comprehensive list of all information pertaining to your family's current financial status, such as:

- Personal information
- Professional advisors
- Banking
- Investments
- Assets
- Insurance

Completing this inventory is a first step in developing your estate plan. It will increase the likelihood your assets are accounted for and considered and your beneficiaries are set up. An up-to-date inventory will prove invaluable to your surviving heirs, executors, trustees and advisors as your estate is settled.

This inventory is also a useful reference when creating or updating your wealth management plan. It will help you step back and look at your overall financial situation and confirm that you have considered all aspects of your financial affairs.

You should update this document whenever significant changes in your family's financial status occur. Due to the level of detail and personal information, be sure to keep the information secure by adding password protection to your electronic copy and storing any printed copies in a safe place. If you have any questions while using this document, please contact your advisor at RBC Wealth Management.

Family values

What unites your family?

Engaging with your family on financial matters often involves discussions about your values and priorities. Taking inventory of the values within your own family across generations is a good exercise to find common ground and stir conversations about the legacy you want to cultivate.

The following list may help you reflect on the values that are most important to you. Put an “X” next to those you relate to and feel free to add your own.

Guiding the discussion

What defines your family’s success? Business, property or is it more elusive: traditions, values or ethics? And how will you pass it on to the next generation with forethought, clear goals and careful execution?

Identify three values that resonate the most with you and why:

Value 1: _____

Value 2: _____

Value 3: _____

Articulate your wishes, plans or expectations around traditions, values and ethics:
